The Beagle is Busted

Undoubtedly, you have noticed that the Beagle logo is no more. President Buckley received a letter from the United Feature Syndicate, Inc. d/b/a United Media ("UFS") explaining the laws of copyright infringement. "Cease and desist" seemed like the terms used most forcefully and effectively just before some language about "damages." President Buckley chose to consult with other members of the Bar. After much collaboration and consultation with the best legal minds in the Association, the decision was made. The Beagle would proudly put his tail between his legs and pass quietly into the archives where old Beagles go. The Beagle fought a gallant fight but in the end, the 'ole dog' had to lie down. We, the Eastern Jackson County Bar Association, could have unwittingly, destroyed the image of Snoopy, a cartoon dog. Nevertheless, we should remember in the years to come, we may be lower than a dog but at least we can "speak". So long good Beagle. We meant you no harm. (moment of silence.)

Does anyone have a socially correct Beagle picture. It should have no religious, ethnic, sexual or other protected class connotations. It should not offend dog lovers or cat haters or for that matter any animal rights activists. It should bear no political expressions of any kind and for that matter should not have any views whatsoever that might be construed as possible “wardrobe malfunctions”. If you do, please send in your nomination. Until then, in all that is good and American, The New Beagle offers you the following pictures to consider:
